• PEBBLES IN OUR SHOES •

INEGALITAT

Standing up against injustice won't be easy. You need to be well prepared, because you don't know the way ahead. Fortunately, you have a compass to guide you and you have protected your feet by fitting your shoes with everything you need to walk.

However, pebbles can still slip into your shoes. Before you set off, we suggest you think about the obstacles you might meet along the way.

INDIVIDUALLY

- Look at the compass that your Tapori group made, and then think of a situation where you personally took a stand against injustice. For example, preventing a fight between two friends or allowing a child on their own to join in with other children.

Write this down on a piece of paper so you don't forget.

- What did you want to achieve? What prevented you from achieving your goal? What obstacles and difficulties did you encounter? How did you try to overcome them?

AS A GROUP

- Share with each other individual examples of difficulties encountered. Do any obstacles come up more often than others? Do some seem overwhelming?
- Now take up your compass again. As a group, choose a single injustice from your compass and name all the obstacles that might stand in your way.
  - Think of ways to overcome the obstacles that are surmountable.
  - Make a list of the ones you think are impossible to overcome.

Now let's get moving!

The obstacles on your list will turn into "pebbles".

Look around you and collect all the things that might get in the way when you walk: a nail, a piece of chewing gum, sand, a small stone...

... and put them in the shoes you created in the previous Tapori Letter!
